MORGAN DONATES OVER 47,000 MEALS FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN WORLDWIDE IN MARCH

Morgan partners with non-profit organization Feed My Starving Children

PLEASANTON, Calif., April 1, 2010 — D.W. Morgan has dedicated its global supply chain and logistics management success to fight hunger through its Delivering Hope for the Hungry campaign. The company made a donation for each shipment it delivered through its supply chain throughout the month of March. With an end count of 47,124 meals, D.W. Morgan surpasses its initial goal of 30,000 by more than 17,000 meals for starving children around the world. This was made possible through the company shipments—totaling 7,044 shipments, or 42,264 meals. With an additional 4,860 meals being raised through the social media driven micro-site, Delivering Hope for the Hungry.

Morgan's non-profit-partner for Delivering Hope for the Hungry is Feed My Starving Children, a 501(c)(3) organization focused on providing critical meals to the neediest regions in Africa, Asia and the Americas. Feed My Starving Children meals are distributed in more than 60 countries through missionary partnerships at orphanages, schools, clinics, refugee camps and malnourishment centers. 94 percent of all donations to FMSC go directly toward the feeding program. In 2008, Feed My Starving Children brought over 73 million meals to children around the world. They've provided Haiti youth with more than 25 million meals.

"We strive to help improve the communities in which we operate, and those less fortunate than ourselves," said David W. Morgan, Founder and CEO of D.W. Morgan Company. "With much success to fight hunger through our Delivering Hope for the Hungry campaign, we plan to continue this initiative in the near future."

Delivering Hope for the Hungry is part of Morgan's larger corporate social responsibility program. The company supports a broad array of initiatives, with a particular focus on children, social services, education and minority business development.
